DETAILED ACTION

The preliminary amendment filed on January 14, 2005, has been received and entered.

Claims 1-71 are pending.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-48 and 71, drawn to a method for transferring a nucleic acid into a cell, producing a plant, and the produced plant produced by said method.

Group II, claim(s) 49-70, drawn to an apparatus comprising a section for holding the cell under pressure different from an atmospheric pressure and a section for electroporation.

A "special technical feature" is defined by PCT Rule 13.2 as "those technical features that define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions, considered as a whole, makes over the prior art." In the instant case, as discussed below, certain embodiments of claimed inventions fail to make any contribution over the prior art. Because certain embodiments of the claimed inventions fail to make any contribution over the prior art, the claims as filed fail to contain a single common special technical feature supporting a showing unity of invention.

Specifically, as evidenced by the International Search Report, which is part of the record in this application, it is clear that at least three publications, Rickwood et al. (WO 01/05994), Dodgson et al. (WO 00/63407), and Papp et al. (US 5,422,272), demonstrate that the claims presented for examination at the very least lack an inventive step. Because the claims as filed lack a common special technical feature which defines them over the prior art, the claims lack unity.

Lack of a common special technical feature, and therefore lack of unity, is further demonstrated by the fact that the apparatus of Groups II require certain features which are not required for performing the methods of Group I. Thus, a reference which anticipates Group I, for example, would not necessarily anticipate Groups II. See also Rickwood et al. (WO 01/05994) listed on the International Search Report, which anticipates Group I but does not anticipate Group II.

Though there is no burden requirement for lack of unity, it should be noted that because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions require a different field of search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
